

Websites For Teachers

Compiled By Thomas Stowell

WEBSITE ADDRESS	WEBSITE NAME	DESCRIPTION
http://www.ed.gov/	United States Department of Education	Tons of information about what's new in the field of education as well as a wealth of resources for teachers, administrators, students, and parents.
http://www.eric.ed.gov/	The Educational Resources Information Center (ERIC)	This website is supported by the Federal Government and aims to provide research information, resources, and other data about educational issues to the public.
http://www.educationworld.com  	Education World	Perhaps one of the best sites I've come across so far, this website provides information for teachers that you won't find anywhere else. Included are lesson plans, current issues in the field, and critiques on other educationally related sites.
http://www.educationplanet.com/	Education Planet	Similar to Education World, Education Planet includes tons of information for educators as well as lesson plans, printable activities, and current research articles.
http://www.ldonline.org/	Learning Disabilities Online	This site is the mother of all websites having to do with disabilities in children and youth. Anything you ever wanted to know about why people have difficulty learning as well as how to help can be found here.
http://www.nclld.org/	National Center for Learning Disabilities	A great resource to utilize to find information about certain disabilities in children and youth.
http://school.discovery.com/ 	Discovery Channel Online	For those science-minded educators, Discovery Channel's website provides LOTS of information on everything from educational resources (videos, etc.) to use in the classroom as well as lesson plans for science-related topics. For some real fun – make a puzzle using their interactive puzzle maker.
http://www.nationalgeographic.com/education	National Geographic Online	A great site to use to find lessons and other interactive tools to teach everything from history, government, science, etc.
http://www.scholastic.com/ 	Scholastic Publishing Site For Teachers	A great source for lessons based on popular books. This site also includes a great teacher's calendar of monthly events.
http://www.teachers.net/	Teachers.net	A collection of lesson plans, information, and educational related chat rooms, this site has it all.

http://www.teachersfirst.com/	Teachers First	A well-arranged site that provides teachers and students access to lesson plans and website resources.
http://www.teachnet.com/ 	Teachernet.com	Yet another searchable page that includes lesson planning ideas and links to further research and resources.
http://atozteacherstuff.com/	A to Z Teacher Stuff	This site was created by teachers for other teachers. It is a great collection of websites and lesson plans for the busy teacher!
http://www.edhelper.com/	Ed Helper.com	Site includes a great deal of “free” material. Lesson plans ideas, projects, and some downloadable activities can be found here. Check out the crossword puzzle maker too.
http://www.learningpage.com/	The Learning Page	Feel free to download whatever you want! That’s what this website says on it’s main page. There certainly are LOTS of things to download – everything from lessons to activities.
http://www.nytimes.com/learning/	New York Times Education Page	Provides everything from the latest news for students and teachers to lesson plans that help teach current events.
http://www.cnn.com/EDUCATION/	Cable News Network Education Page	Provides lessons to accompany special programs seen on CNN’s cable television channel.
http://www.teacherxpress.com/ 	Teacher Xpress.com	The MOTHER of all websites. There’s almost too much information here. Anything and everything you could possibly want could be found on this site. Based in the UK, so some information may not be relevant, but nonetheless a great place to start any search.
http://www.nasa.gov/ 	NASA Government Site	Excellent resource for teaching students about all things cosmic! Great links to other web resources along with a HUGE amount of information from NASA itself.
Http://www.teachervision.com	Teachervision.com	Great website filled with lots of general information on lesson planning, classroom management, and tons more!
http://memory.loc.gov/ammem/index.html	Library of Congress	Excellent resource for social studies, history, or humanities projects. Great links to primary documents and other helpful sources of information.
http://www.webquest.org/ 	Webquest WebCentral	A great tool for searching and creating webquests.

Look for the apple  next to a website to see which websites are “a cut above the rest” in my opinion. All of the websites listed here are helpful and don’t even begin to scratch the surface on what’s out there. There are TONS of websites that can help teachers be creative and successful! Have fun searching the web! Remember to be responsible while on the Internet.
